

Partial List of Facilities Subject to Clean Water Act § 316(b)

The attached memo contains a list of facilities with cooling water intake structures. All of the facilities on that list had at least one cooling water intake structure as of 2000, when EPA surveyed facilities about their cooling water practices. The surveys constituted a census of electric generating facilities and a sample of manufacturing or other industrial facilities. There are 891 facilities on this list, some of which may have changed names or closed since they responded to the survey. Others may have changed the design intake flow of their intake structure.

Based on data from the 2000 survey, and the requirements in its final rulemaking on cooling water intakes structures (signed by the Administrator on May 19, 2014), EPA estimates that 1,065 facilities with cooling water intake structures as of 2013 are subject to the final rule. The 1,065 estimate does not include facilities that EPA considered to be baseline closures. EPA describes the derivation of this estimate in Appendix H of the “Economic Analysis for the Final Section 316(b) Existing Facilities Rule” support document for the final rule.

Thus, at least 174 facilities with cooling water intake structures are not included on this list. For every closed facility that is included on the attached list, the 174 count of unlisted facilities would grow by one.

This list does not contain any confidential business information, unlike the responses to EPA’s survey from many facilities. This list is identical to the facility list that EPA has shared with Freedom of Information Act requestors, and can be found at <https://foiaonline.regulations.gov/>, under a search for “EPA-HQ-2014-005198”.

Memo: List of surveyed facilities for section 316(b) existing facility rule development

Date: October 29, 2010

Description: This memo identifies the 891 existing electric generating and manufacturing facilities that submitted a detailed technical questionnaire as part of EPA's section 316(b) Cooling Water Intake Structures regulatory development process. The information provided includes:

- Facility name
- Facility location (state)
- EPA Region in which the Facility is located
- The waterbody type from which cooling water is withdrawn
- The facility's total design intake flow (DIF) in gallons per day

EPA does not have this information for every existing facility. Ownership, facility name, and operating status of these facilities may have changed since this information was originally collected.
